3 WELCOMED TO COUNCIL OFFICE FOR NEW TERM

Unanimous Vote Places Mayor Chandler In Office Again

The new mayor of the city of Richmond for the coming year is Mrs. Mattie Chandler, who was honored by her fellow workers last evening at the meeting of the council by being re-elected to the position she has so ably filled for the past twelve months.

Three members took their places around the council table to begin a new term, Virgil A. Fenner and Al Paulsen, who are new members, and John N. Hartnett, who was re-elected.

When the council was called to order, it was announced the first order of business was the selection of a mayor. A motion was made by Councilman W. W. Scott, seconded by Councilman E. A. Martin, that Mattie Chandler be elected. The clerk called the roll and the result of the vote was unanimous.

Thanks Members
Mrs. Chandler then thanked the members for the confidence they had placed in her, stating she appreciated it very highly, and in return pledged them her loyalty and support in carrying out any program that was for the best interests of the citizens of Richmond and the development of the city.

J. N. Hartnett

Virgil A. Fenner, one of the new councilmen, in replying to the welcome extended by Mayor Chandler, said: I appreciate the kindly welcome that has been given me on my taking my seat as a member of this body, and for the advancement of the city's welfare, I wish to say that I will do anything that I can.

Al L. Paulsen, the other of the new members in making his reply, said: "I am very proud of being elected as a member of the Richmond council. I have always felt it was a hard job at the best, and since I have been elected I have been convinced that the first council I formed was a correct one. In city government you always have what are known as "back seat drivers," a term commonly used by those driving automobiles, and I am sure you have just as many of this class of people in city government. I have heard everything that is possible to apply to officials, and since I have taken my seat I now suppose the same term will be applied to me. Let them go to it!

When Councilman Hartnett was called on for remarks he said it was his opinion that Paulsen had said "it all."

Attack Charge Filed By Two Women Jails 4 Local Youths

Drinking Bout And Orgy Figure In Story Of "Wild Party"

Charged with assault with intent to commit rape, four Richmond boys, two of them local pugilists, were taken into custody by police yesterday following complaint of two young women who alleged they were forced to have a "wild party" Monday night.

Those arrested were: Joe Vernetti, 18, 157 Bishop avenue, Richmond; Louis Galletta, 17, 1827 Clinton avenue, Richmond; Caesar Bartone, 19, 314 South Sixth street, Richmond; Charles Aetis, 20, 500 East Richmond avenue.

The youths were arraigned before Justice of the Peace John Roth yesterday afternoon and specifically charged with rape. At a late hour last night only one of the boys, Joe Vernetti, had succeeded in raising bail, which had been set at $1000.

Local police authorities yesterday termed the alleged assault as comparable to the Howard street gangsters' outrage in San Francisco a few years ago the rape case that sent Ed (Spud) Murphy, gangster and pugilist, behind the walls of San Quentin.

KEY TO REMOVE CAR LINES TO PERMIT PAVING

Resolution Of Intention Calling For Paving Is Adopted

City Attorney T. M. Carlson reported to the council last evening he had been in conference with the Key System officials the past week, and they had tentatively agreed to the taking up of the cut line on San Pablo avenue, so that paving would not be interfered with.

During the reconstruction period the railroad company agrees to the operation of a bus.

This will have no bearing on the application of the Key System for the abandonment of its branch lines in Richmond, that will be heard by the railroad commission some time in September, and on that understanding the city attorney was authorized to enter into a stipulation with the street car company officials.

In order that there might be no delay in the paving of the center 22 foot strip on San Pablo avenue the council adopted a resolution of intention calling for the proposed improvement.

These proceedings will be carried to the point where the council will be ready to call for bids. If the railroad commission decided adversely to the city of Richmond, the paving of the center strip can go forward without delay and the work completed before the winter rains set in.

Improvements Planned Will Convert Hall To Labor Uses

Pythian Castle, a lodge hall on Fifth street between Macdonald and Bessell avenues, has been sold to the local carpenters union No. 642. It was stated yesterday by Martin O. Hauge, business agent for the carpenters. The castle will take the place of the Labor temple at Fourth and Macdonald avenue, which is now being remodelled.

The downstairs halls will be used by labor organizations while the upstairs hall will be used by fraternal organizations as it has in the past. Hauge said that the downstairs hall would be renovated and clubrooms introduced. The upstairs halls will also be repaired and perhaps another hall will be made by cutting through a partition and eliminating a few lockers.

The outside of the building will be painted where needed and a new entrance will be cut through to the lower hall. This work will not be done immediately, Hauge said, but will be completed in the course of a few months.

CHILD VICTIM OF CHANCE IS POLICE THEORY

Skulker Reported Seen In Neighborhood By Several People

Mabel Mayer was the victim of a just-driven maniac who night after night for at least two weeks had lurked in that Oakland neighborhood, waiting for some helpless woman on whom to wreak his mad urge to kill.

With neighbor after neighbor telling the same story of the sinister prowler who skulked about back yards; who smoked on front porches only to flee into the darkness at the slightest sign he was seen; who terrified the women of the district; who peered with an electric flashlight into bedroom windows by night—with all those tales piling up yesterday afternoon police began to lean most strongly toward the theory that Mabel Mayer walked unsuspectingly into this madman's trap just at the moment when every condition was right for the working of his sinister purpose.

Neighbors Testify
Oakland's police records bear out the stories that neighbors told yesterday of the night skulker. Several times within the last two weeks, the police blotter shows (Continued on Page 5)

What it's all about

By PAUL ALLEN

GREAT CITIES TODAY ARE great because they are seaports. With the great cities of the future be great because they have great airports? That is a question which leaders are pondering, wondering whether the investment of millions of dollars in expensive landing fields, would be wise. Every body believes that aviation is due for a tremendous advance, but many observers believe that won't be for some time. In the meantime cities will purchase land for airports just the same. If aviation is immediately successful, they will be ready for business. If there is a delay in the fulfillment of the dream, the land will still be there. And land in and near American cities is increasing in value every year.

THE EXTREME HAZARD OF transoceanic flights is shown by the long wait of Commander Byrd's expedition. It is a scientific and not a reckless adventure party, the boys of the America waits until all conditions are favorable. But regular passenger service that depends upon fair weather all the way from here to Europe is not likely to become immensely popular all at once.

PROFITABLE AIR TRAVEL over long distances waits upon the invention of the development of a new engine, or the discovery of a new kind of motor fuel. Gasoline takes up so much space that it is not possible to carry enough to make a profit without overloading the car.

SIMPLIFIED SPELLING IS ON the way. Most of the cartoonists who draw funny strips write "fite" for "right," "coff" for "cough," and so on. Simplified spelling is a good thing. Children waste a fearful lot of energy learning to write words in funny ways merely because some one started to do it that way thousands of years ago.

TRANSATLANTIC HOPPERS have shown that they can go long hours without sleep and still perform nerve-racking work. Add to this record of sleeplessness the cases of thousands of aviation fans who stand patiently all night, night after night, waiting for a possible start of a European-bound birdman. They saw Lindbergh start, then Chamberlin and Levine, and are now waiting for Byrd to fly. These all-night watchers conduct their daytime affairs with apparently their usual vigor. Seems as if there is something so inspiring about aviation that it makes sleep less important than over less thrilling affairs, such as night clubs.

How To EARN MONEY at HOME.

By Sara Spence

I have two children, my expenses are heavy. My husband doesn't earn much. What can I do to tell me to send things to the neighbors. Give me some idea else!

"WIFE!" Franky, I would go into painting fine furniture. Your letter indicates that you are artistic. You could buy a period chair at a second hand shop. Do it up in gold stencils and sell it at a commission in an art shop. You could do designing for a commercial advertising concern. The latter is easily within your reach and could be done in your spare time. I live in an apartment and there is nothing on earth I can do. "That does sound discouraging. Why not get your friends in the country to send you filling for balsam pillows. I know a woman who makes them by the whole sale and sells every one. She attends the outside appropriately. And they go quickly."

MRS. J. J.

If you depend on medicine, electricity and enemas to cure you, you are sure to be disappointed. The body will cure itself if given a chance, but unless the habits of living are corrected it will not have this chance. Tannic acid should not be used in an enema. The usual treatment by natural methods in such a case would be the fast and milk diet taken in bed, or, if this is impossible, an acid fruit diet for up to five days, followed by a largely raw fruit and vegetable diet, with buttermilk, together with gravity exercises, alternate hot and cold sitz baths and plenty of rest and sleep. I have been suffering for a year

Is Your Skin Yellow? Try A Fast! Cut Out Cosmetics

"My skin is turning yellow on my face, neck and hands. What can I do to correct this?" writes Mrs. Francis R. to this department. "I have tried to suggest special exercises for your particular need. However, the only way to correct this condition is to fast. I should not neglect your daily exercise at home. That is just as important as class room work."

Else if your skin is tender, don't use a hot wash with stiff brushes. Toothbrushes and mud in light medium and soft sponges. A lighter brush, used more often, will do more good than a heavy brush once a day.

Mrs. J. J. is an ancient, worn-out theory that a woman must lose her teeth because of motherhood. The idea became prevalent, probably, because women discovered that at this time their teeth needed more attention than at any other time. This is true. During this period their own body is called upon to supply the physical elements for a new being, and unless the diet is properly regulated the elements which should go toward forming nourishment for the body will be utilized otherwise. With proper care and a specified diet, this can be entirely avoided.

THE NAVAL CONFERENCE in Geneva hasn't succeeded yet in bringing about the scrapping of any warships. Each nation wants its own way for its own reasons. The United States is pointing the way for the whole world to cut down drastically on the expensive business of building for war, but others do not seem ready to play with us. This is a game of all play or nobody play.

SYNOPSIS
Sheila Kildare and her father emigrate to America to follow Emmett Murtough to whom she is betrothed. Murtough runs a boot-legging band and Sheila is befriended by the family of Rory O'Shea, a professional boxer. Murtough, influenced by a cabaret girl, betrays his band and she is forced to flee. The boxers in turn double cross him and he is exiled with threats of death. Rory begins to court Sheila to the delight of his parents.

"Soon you'll be stepping work," Sheila, Rory said to her one night when he called to take her home. "And I've got a surprise for you, some good news."

"An' what can it be, Rory?" "I'm going into business," he said. "With Tim himself. We settled it last night. I'm putting in my money toward buying a new truck he needs, and that'll give me a share in the profits. Oh, it isn't much, but I'm to earn fair wages at the same time."

"You're not going to fight any more?" Rory laughed. He held out his right hand then so she might examine it under the lamplight. "Not with that mit," he said. "An' what happened to it?" asked Sheila. "Oh, I fought a bare knuckle fight for the biggest prize in the world one night," he said. "An' ye told me nothing about it?"

"Nor am I going to tell you now. It's forgotten, but I had to take up a business and give up my profession," he smiled. Nor would he say more. But Old Mike O'Shea, who now looked upon Sheila as a new daughter come to grace his family, did tell her as proudly, for the old man took pride in the son that could win so fine a girl.

"Ye see, they told it to me at the Club, for sure, an' Rory would never say a word about it, an' him weighing a little over a hundred and thirty-three, the big one weighing more like a hundred and seventy."

"But who was he?" "It was my fine friend, Murtough, and it was the night of the dance. Dye remember now, when Rory came back, what with his eye turning black and half shut and a bump on his jaw as big as me hand?" That was exaggeration for Mike O'Shea had a hand so large that it would cover both jaws of a man. "An' Rory took him into the storeroom and they had a fight. It must a been a grand fight, an' I've never forgiven Rory for not calling me down to see it!"

"Your former friend Murtough, was so strong as a bull, so Manne Clocker told me, but he didn't know the science that my lad knew an' he whaled and flailed into Rory, but sure he was like a cat, now here and then gone again. And Rory stepping in and tearing his face to ribbons. But Rory had to finish the job, so he waited an' when his chance came he struck out with his right an' the great jaw of Murtough took the blow. An' Rory followed it up with another to the chin! That finished his hand, three of his knuckles were broken, an' he must a been in great pain, but ye didn't hear him whimper even about it the whole night, now did ye?"

"But why did they fight? I knew they had, but what was it about?" "Sure, an' didn't Murtough get ye engaged to him, while all the time he was telling this other girl that he was engaged to her too, an' Rory didn't like to have ye deceived, darling."

"An' he wouldn't, sure an' it's unbecoming of me to praise my own son, but, Sheila, he's a fine boy and ye could do no better than to marry him."

"But Rory never told me."

"An' he wouldn't. Sure an' it's unbecoming of me to praise my own son, but, Sheila, he's a fine boy and ye could do no better than to marry him."

CRUELTY TO CHILDREN

Old Fogies are always with us. Their clammy hands constantly are raised in horror against progress. They hysterically demand the suppression of everything lively and lovely.

There breed infests even such a progressive nation as England.

Their most recent activity over there is ridiculous.

It is to stop the husky Zitenfeld twins from trying to swim the English Channel. Permitting this feat to go on, they say, would be cruelty to children.

Whoever imagined that it was cruel for healthy children to use the muscles of their vibrant, rugged bodies?

Fortunately, youth usually finds a way of doing forbidden things.

In doing so it often stirs the world to admiration. Fussbudgets warned young Charlie Lindbergh against risking his life in a hop to Paris.

They called him a "flying fool" when he gave signs of paying no attention to their bleats.

If he had listened, he would still be sitting around Long Island waiting for ideal weather and a lot of other things.

Instead of listening, he went.

A SOCIETY WEDDING

It was a truly democratic society wedding that took place in New York city when Miss Grace Vanderbilt was married to Harry Cassaway Davis, III., a mining engineer.

This has all the hallmarks of an honest-to-goodness American romance.

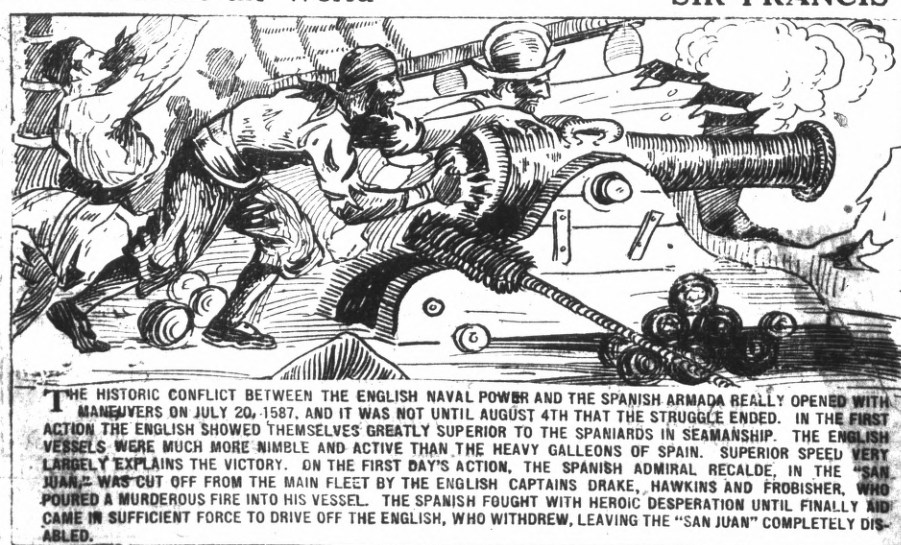

It gives bride and groom a start in the right direction without unnecessary frills and flubdubbery.

It is much more likely to bring permanent happiness than any arranged alliance with foreign nobility might have done.

In this day, when every one is learning to do the right thing in the direct way, without fear or favor, it is refreshing to see sons and daughters of wealth right in line with the rest of the world's progressive folks.

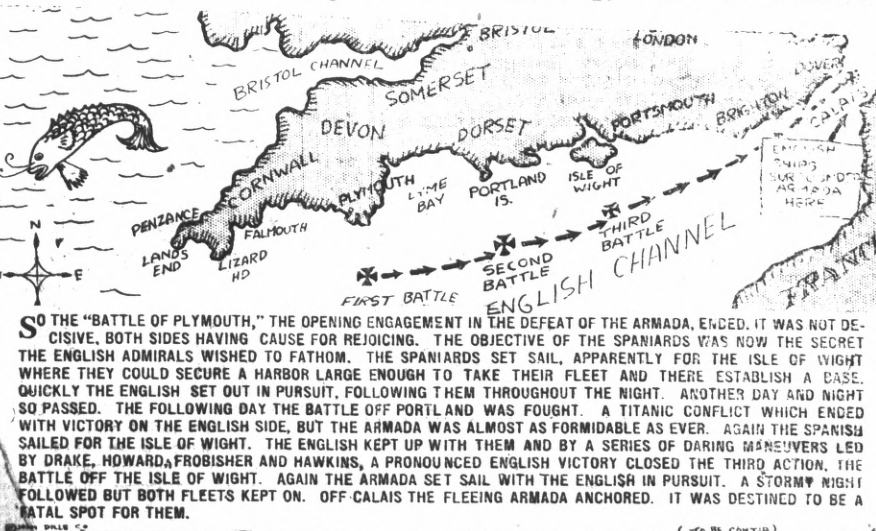

According to the Americans who were there, Captain Lindbergh did not make a single mistake while in Paris. Nor did he make any while he was enroute to Paris.

Men Who Made the World

SIR FRANCIS DRAKE

By Dr. Elliot Shoring, The Noted Historian

SO THE "BATTLE OF PLYMOUTH," THE OPENING ENGAGEMENT IN THE DEFEAT OF THE ARMADA, ENDED. IT WAS NOT DECISIVE, BOTH SIDES HAVING CAUSE FOR REJOICING. THE OBJECTIVE OF THE SPANIARDS WAS NOW THE SECRET THE ENGLISH ADMIRALS WISHED TO FATHOM. THE SPANIARDS SET SAIL, APPARENTLY FOR THE ISLE OF WIGHT WHERE THEY COULD SECURE A HARBOR LARGE ENOUGH TO TAKE THEIR FLEET AND THERE ESTABLISH A BASE. QUICKLY THE ENGLISH SET OUT IN PURSUIT, FOLLOWING THEM THROUGHOUT THE NIGHT. ANOTHER DAY AND NIGHT SO PASSED. THE FOLLOWING DAY THE BATTLE OFF PORTLAND WAS FOUGHT. A TITANIC CONFLICT WHICH ENDED WITH VICTORY TO THE ENGLISH SIDE. BUT THE ARMADA WAS ALMOST AS FORMIDABLE AS EVER. AGAIN THE SPANISH FLEET KEPT UP WITH THEM AND BY A SERIES OF DARING MANEUVERS LED BY DRAKE, HOWARD, FROBISHER AND HAWKINS, A PRONOUNCED ENGLISH VICTORY CLOSED THE THIRD ACTION. THE BATTLE OFF THE ISLE OF WIGHT. AGAIN THE ARMADA SET SAIL WITH THE ENGLISH IN PURSUIT. A STORMY NIGHT FOLLOWED BUT BOTH FLEETS KEPT ON. OFF CALAIS THE FLEEING ARMADA ANCHORED. IT WAS DESTINED TO BE A FATAL SPOT FOR THEM.

Madman Lurked For Victim 2 Weeks, Belief

Frightened householders had called for protection against a man who was seen prowling about the darkened streets and yards. But each time the man was gone when the police answered the call.

Repeated Visits
For at least two weeks, according to Mrs. Schmidt and her husband, the prowler had made the nights uneasy with his startling appearances, his earnings and goings.

Time and again, they said, he would tiptoe up front steps, stand motionless on front porches and peer into windows, then sneak as silently down again.

Repeatedly the Schmidts, and others in the district have been awakened to see an electric flash beam "piercing the darkness" of their homes and to see the prowler's head vanish from an open window as he saw the occupants of the room awaken.

"The man was evidently not right," commented Schmidt. And in his actions experts see every indication of the type of mental case which could be responsible for the sort of crime that has plagued the bay region.

East Bay Police Mass

In checking up one of the many possibilities in the mystery—and the police are neglecting none of them—it was learned that "Lonesome Harry" McDonald, who was a suspect in the murder of An-drietta "Babe" Hildebrand in San Francisco under somewhat similar circumstances some time ago, was a patient at Napa asylum at the time of the Mabel Mayer killing. McDonald had been at large for some time, but returned to Napa last June 29, the investigators learned.

Berkeley police yesterday gave the Oakland detectives the name of a known psychopath who recently moved from Berkeley to Oakland. This man had given the Berkeley police "considerable trouble," according to Inspector A. S. J. Woods, of Berkeley, who conferred with the Oakland detectives. The Oakland police last night were awaiting the individual's return to his home, for interrogation.

No Premeditated Crime

As investigators continued their probing of the mystery yesterday, they were forced to lean ever and ever more strongly toward the theory that the killing of Mabel Mayer was no premeditated crime—that she had not been marked as the specific victim of a planned murder.

It was pointed out that there was no known outsider who knew that Mabel Mayer would at that hour pass along beside the vacant house behind which she was doing death. These who knew that she was on her way home at that hour were her relatives—her father and brother, and the uncle whose home she had just left.

And this fact—that no one else knew that the child would be there at that time—was held almost conclusive proof that the murder was not planned against Mabel Mayer.

Fate For Any Woman

On the other hand there was reason to believe that any other woman who might have walked there at that hour would have suffered the fate that befell this child. In other words, it appeared that some deranged person, the type known as a sadist, who derives pleasure from inflicting excessive torture on others, was at large at that place and that time, and that Mabel Mayer happened to be the first female to cross his path.

Conditions for the crime were perfect—there was virtually no light; there was a vacant house and a hidden back yard; there were no other persons on the street or peering from windows. The killer could—and did—carry out his terrible purpose with the least possible likelihood of discovery.

And because of this very situation, investigators find the murder of Mabel Mayer one of the hardest puzzles to solve. In the identity of the victim there is no clue to the identity of the killer, for any other woman would have done as well. And so the manhunters have to start "blind," with absolutely no positively established fact save that Mabel Mayer was slain.

Clues Found

Yet despite the apparent paucity of definite clues or actual progress toward the end of their hunt the police were optimistic last night.

"As a result of the work we have done," explained B. A. Wallman, captain of inspectors, "we have more complete data and information on this crime and its surrounding circumstances than we have ever had on any such case before. I feel that we are not far from a solution."

To a direct question as to whether or not the police have any specific information which they are keeping secret, and using as the basis for secret operations, Wallman refused to give a definite answer.

Neighborhood Searched

Under the direction of Wallman, police began yesterday a round-up and examination of every known and suspected mental case of this type in all Oakland, and particularly the neighborhood of the killing.

It is likely that the killer will be found to have a home or place of refuge nearby, for he could not flee far with his clothes and face and hands as blood-spattered as they must have been after his work was done.

If they question the right person, he he of the sadist sort, they will have little difficulty in getting a confession, Wallman believes, for this sort of maniac delights almost as much in the telling of what he has done as in the doing of it.

Suspects Freed

The police yesterday released the five youths who had been taken into custody for questioning the night before—Frank Fonseca, 19, 1574 Orchard avenue, San Leandro, and four of his companions. Remarks these youths had made to their interrogation. But they established complete alibis and were released by the police, who cleared them of any connection with the killing of the Mayer girl.

Rubber Boat Saves Byrd And Crew From Death

AFTER AN ALL-NIGHT BATTLE with driving rain and dense fog, the America, unable to land in France because of the fog, fell into the English Channel 200 yards from the shore. The gallant flyers were saved from probable drowning by paddling their way to shore in a rubber boat which they had stowed away in the America for just such an emergency. Photo above, taken when boat was tested a few months ago, shows Byrd rowing the boat that saved his life. Lieut. Noville (back turned) and Floyd Bennett, who was unable to make the flight on account of injuries, are also shown in the boat.

day crossed to San Francisco to interview a local jeweler, a relative of the slain girl who had been very friendly with her.

Coley returned to Oakland yesterday afternoon with the formal report that his trip had shed no light on the mystery, and that the jeweler was unable to aid the investigators in any way.

Another development yesterday, but one to which the police attach little importance, was the receipt of a scrawled "confession" of the killing.

"Bogus Letter"

The letter, addressed merely to "The Mail," and postmarked Sunday night in Oakland read:

"We read the paper and we are glad that you have found the girl that was killed Saturday night. I love this girl for a long time and that night I asked her to marry me and she said she loved someone else better than myself. So that made me mad. And so I told her I would take her home. Instead of taking her home I got another fellow and we took her there and killed her. So now I am on my way to my country where I belong. So try and get me. When you receive this letter I will be a long way."

The letter was scrawled on common notebook paper, in pencil. "It's from some nut," commented the police. "They are common in cases like this; we'll probably get others."

Clue Traced

Police learned yesterday, too, of strange colloquy between a woman and a man on Eighty-fifth avenue, a block from the scene of the murder, last Saturday night. "About 10 o'clock," Mrs. C. O. Schmidt—the same woman who told of the night prowler—said, "my baby awakened me by crying. At the same time, I heard a girl scream in the street. I looked out the front window and saw a girl and a man walking up the avenue toward Plymouth street. The man was ahead; he was a burly man with broad shoulders. The girl, about 20 feet behind, was hatless with blonde bobbed hair, a dark coat and light shoes and stockings. She seemed half hysterical, but whether she was crying or laughing I could not tell. At any rate, she joined the man, and together they turned the corner toward Eighty-sixth avenue."

Last Rites Today

The funeral of Mabel Mayer will be held at 2 o'clock this afternoon. Coroner Grant Miller yesterday called a panel of inquest jurors, who viewed the body in the Miller morgue.

The funeral this afternoon will be held at the morgue chapel, and will be conducted by the Church of the Latter Day Saints, at Mos-avenue and Webster street, of which Mabel Mayer was a member. Eulogies will be spoken by W. Aird McDonald, president of the local church, and by John G. Winner, a former president. Interment will be in Evergreen cemetery.

A great throng is expected at the services, and police were making preparations to guard the funeral.

Late yesterday afternoon, the police took up a new thread of investigation as the result of information given by two families residing on Eighty-first avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Pryor, of 2901, and Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Gleason, of 2915 that avenue, told Inspector Macdonald and O'Donnell that they were standing in front of their homes Sunday morning, conversing, when a woman approached them.

She was evidently demented, they noticed at once. She stared at them for many moments before she finally asked:

"Where is May?"

"Where do you mean?" they asked her. She repeated her question hollowly. They told her they knew of no person named May and asked her:

"Where do you live?"

"I don't know," came the answer at last, "that where is May?"

"Where does May live?" they then asked her.

"Across the street from me. Oh, why did they do it? Why did they do it? I told them not to! I begged them not to!"

The Pryors and the Gleasons, unaware of what had happened the night before, began to question her as to what she meant. Suddenly, seemingly startled at what she had said, the woman suddenly turned away and half ran up the street until she was out of their sight.

Canned Goods, Hot Food Are Blamed For Cancers

(By Universal Service)

BERLIN, July 5.—Canned goods, hot foods and over-eating are the chief cause of cancer, according to Dr. L. Frederic Hoffmann, a German specialist lecturer.

Hoffmann, who has wandered through South America, Mexico and Hawaii, gathering statistics, declared that the scourge was unknown among the primitive people not in contact with the white race, and whose foods consisted of rice and raw fruits.

The doctor declared that the most numerous cases, in any city in the United States, were found in San Francisco.

No Fireworks, Baby Girl, Broke, Gun, Holdup and Jail

(By Universal Service)

CHICAGO, July 5.—A father who had no money to buy fireworks for his little girl, waited in the county jail today for the time when he will be called before Municipal Judge Fetzer to answer to the charge of robbery. The man is John L. Kellogg. When he is arraigned, he will present his plea in the form of a little verse, which reads:

Dear daddy, won't you please come home.
I love you daddy mine.
If you'll come home for the Fourth
We'll have a dandy time.
And so the dad wrote to his girl

"Will bring you fire works.
July the third the dad was broke.
Half sick and out of work.
A gun he found a 'lyn' around.
With this he thought he might
Still keep his promise to the girl.
Who thought her dad just right.
July the Fourth, the little girl
Thought daddy would not fail.
But daddy's new a holdup man.
And locked up tight in jail."

Lunch Wagon Near "Nat" Given Nod

As the result of a petition filed by 41 people of the westside, known as the Richmond and Garfield not be rezoned and placed in the fire district, Francis Smith, ex-war veteran, will be able to maintain his traveling lunch wagon near the bathhouse.

City Manager McVittie stated that on his request, Smith had moved the wagon and in the future it would be on Richmond avenue.

Councilman Hartnett said that while he was opposed to these traveling wagons, the permit had been granted Smith, he had taken out his license for a year, and he did not think it fair for the matter to be hobbling up every week.

Finally the matter was left in the hands of the city manager, as he has handled the situation thus far to the satisfaction of the members of the council.

A vote of thanks was tendered George N. Rooker of the Western States Gas & Electric Co. for procuring the signal and the light.

City Clerk Alie Morris was appointed to represent the city at the meeting of the League of Municipalities to be held in Sacramento September 19th to 23rd.

On the recommendation of Trustee Frank McDermott, City Marshal Forrest Wright was instructed to clear the sidewalks of weeds, so they would not interfere with the pedestrians.

Trustee Charles Zimmerman was given permission to have Fire Chief W. A. Hinds get a price to place the words "Fire Hall" on the building at Minilla and San Pablo avenues for the benefit of the public.

She doesn't know how you do it

YOU FEEL a little embarrassed and sorry for her. She looks so admiring and helpless, so envious, and so—so—ineffective!

Her clothes are always so bad, poor little thing. And she pays too much for them. Her home is furnished with all the wrong things. She seems to have a genius for wasting money. When she goes out to buy anything, soap or silverware, or lingerie or lamps, she's sure to turn up with something nobody ever heard of before and doesn't want to hear of again.

She is that eager, but not very bright, little woman who, "my dear, doesn't ever read advertisements." Who doesn't know what to buy, or where to find it, or what to pay for it. Who doesn't know values and can't compare them. Who doesn't know that when a new style, or a new convenience, or a new anything arrives, one sees it first in the advertisements.

One really gets a little vexed with her—

But let's not waste too much time on her. It's about time for you, dear lady, to have your daily look through the advertisements.

Tell your friends not to overlook the advertisements

RICHMOND GETS A. A. F. SWIMMING MEET

FEDERATION TO STAGE AQUATIC PROGRAM HERE

That Richmond is rapidly securing recognition in the world of sports was indicated with the announcement yesterday that the first annual Northern California Amateur Athletic Federation swimming meet will be staged in the local municipal natatorium on Saturday, September 24.

Glen L. Williams, physical director of the Oakland Y. M. C. A. and secretary of the state body of the A. A. F., yesterday announced tentative plans for what is expected to be one of the biggest swim meets ever staged in this part of the state.

Many Events Planned

The meet will include events for both junior and senior divisions and is expected to attract hundreds of the fastest swimmers in Northern California.

Handsome trophies will be awarded to the winners by the federation, it was announced yesterday, with gold, silver and bronze medals going to the first three in each event.

The Amateur Athletic Federation was first formed in the east a number of years ago by athletic bodies not in sympathy with the Amateur Athletic Union of America, the ruling body in amateur sports of the nation.

Eight Years Old

The California federation was organized about eight years ago, and by its tireless efforts in amateur athletic promotion and development soon made its presence felt. Hollis Thompson of Berkeley is president of the body.

Included in the membership of the Northern California Federation are the Y. M. C. A., various colleges in the state, the Industrial Athletic League, the Live Oak Athletic club of Berkeley, the Chabot Athletic club of Oakland, the West Berkeley Athletic club, the Fruitvale Native Sons and other organizations.

Local Swimming Boosted

Athletic authorities of the city yesterday expressed themselves as well pleased that Richmond has landed the federation swimming meet. Such big competitions can do a great deal to stimulate interest in the aquatic sport, and it should not be a long time before the city takes its place as a leader in swimming activities, it was pointed out.

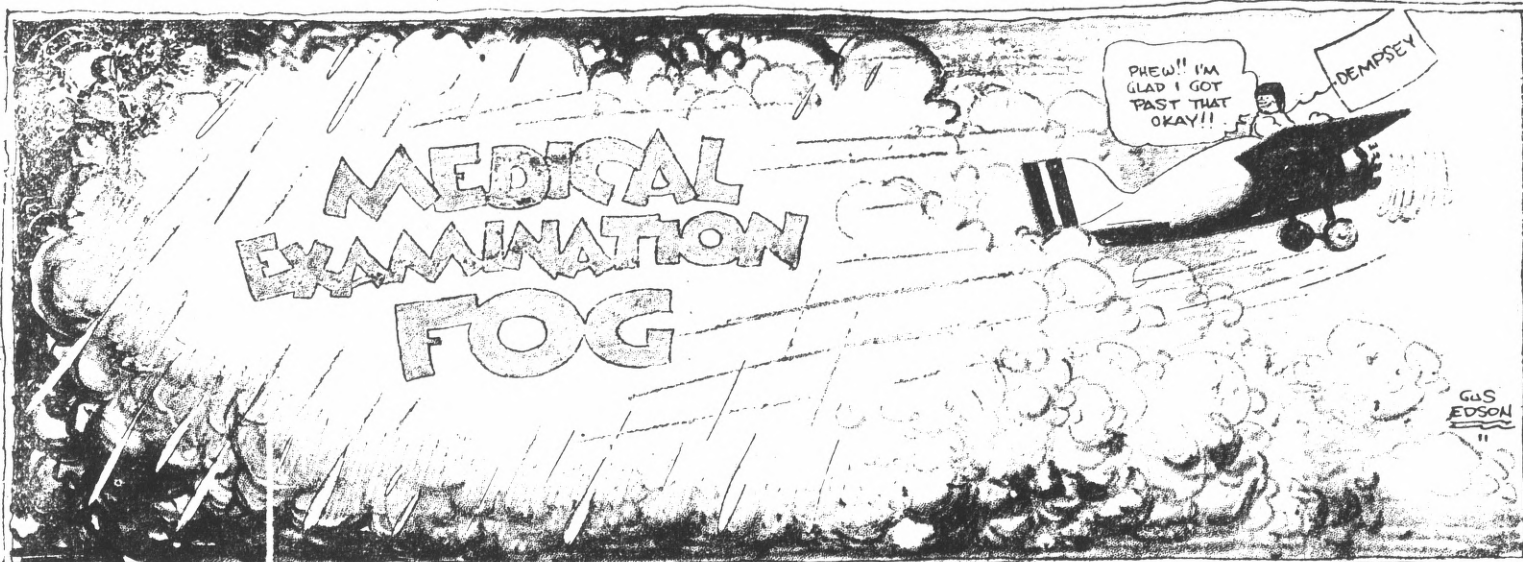

Doubt was expressed yesterday that the newly-formed Richmond Swimming club's team will take part in the federation meeting. The local organization is not affiliated with the body, but is understood to eventually become a member of the Amateur Athletic Union.

Natators Hold Practice

In the meantime, the local paddlers are going right ahead with their practice in preparation for their first meet with the Crockett Community Center team early next month. Art Hargraves, coach of the Crockett paddlers, sprang into prominence on the Fourth of July when he won the mile race at Healdsburg from a field that included some of the greatest swimmers in the state. Hargraves, it is understood, has worked wonders with the sugar refinery aquatic team and the Richmond paddlers appear due for some stiff competition in their initial meet.

NEW YORK, July 5.—Harry Wills and Paulino Uzcudun will meet at Ebbets Field July 13, one week from tomorrow night instead of July 15 as originally scheduled, it was announced from Promoter Humbert Fugazy's offices today.

The promoter shifted the date of the bout because of its proximity to the Dempsey-Sharkey contest, scheduled for July 21.

CARMEN DOWN DOUGALL NINE BY 7-4 SCORE

With Manuel Frates pitching steady ball and helping win his own game with three hits, the Richmond Carmen defeated the Dougall Hardware nine, 7 to 4, Sunday afternoon at the First street ball park.

Frates held the hardware tossers to five hits and struck out eight batters, and topped off a good day's work by crashing out three hits—none a home run—over left field wall.

Suzanne Lenglen To Quit In Year

LONDON, July 5.—"A woman is too old for tennis at thirty. Therefore I plan to retire in two years' time." This is the statement Suzanne Lenglen made to Universal service today.

"Modern tennis is so fast that it entails a strain so great that a woman over thirty can not respond adequately to its demands." "Yet Miss Elizabeth Ryan, who admits she is over thirty, has just set a new world record," interrupted the interviewer. "Yes, but that was in doubles," Lenglen responded. "Now it is different with singles. Singles play is too strenuous for a woman to keep on indefinitely. I don't like the idea of going gradually down grade. I must make way for others."

AMERICANS WIN FURTHER GLORY AT WIMBLEDON

WIMBLEDON, July 5.—Miss Elizabeth Ryan, of Santa Monica, California, second ranking woman player of the United States, established a world's tennis record here, today when she with Helen Wills, also of California, won the ladies' doubles title. It was the ninth victory for Miss Ryan in this event.

This established a record for all time in every division. The nearest approach to this feat being the performance of the Doherty Brothers who won the men's doubles eight times. Of the five titles settled at Wimbledon, America has won four. Francis T. Hunter and Miss Ryan today defeated the holders of the mixed doubles title, I. A. Godfree and Mrs. Godfree, 8-6, 6-0, in the finals of that division to take that championship. The former champions had formerly defeated D. M. Craig and Mrs. Watson quite easily 6-3, 6-4. The Hunter-Ryan combination had some difficulty in disposing of Earl Raymond, and Miss Heine, the South African pair, in the semi-finals, 6-2, 6-4.

The Godfree combination proved a source of serious worry to the first set of their title match. It was the magnificent driving of Francis T. Hunter, whose remarkable play has been the sensation of the final stages of the Wimbledon tournament, which pulled the American pair out of difficulties, when they trailed at 1-5. Hunter's strong driving attack quickly leveled the match and then figured in the final American triumph 8-6, in the set. The Godfreys, their spirits broken, failed to win a game in the second set, although they carried the score to duce several times.

Miss Ryan and Miss Wills played the most brilliant tennis of the day when they defeated Miss Heine and Miss Peacock in the ladies' doubles finals 6-3, 6-2. "Little Miss Poker Face" was at her steadiest, lobbying and driving with deadly consistency. Miss Ryan stormed the net on every occasion killing off weak strokes with smashes, more like a man's than a woman's. The play of the South African pair was completely overshadowed by the team work of the American combination.

Jim Corbett Lauds Fighter's Chance

(By Universal Service)
SARATOGA SPRINGS, N. Y., July 5.—"Gentleman Jim" Corbett, fistic champion of the days long ago, was a camp visitor today. He had a little pow-wow with Jack Dempsey in the champion's cottage, played pool with him, won $1.60 and then, after watching Jack in his workout, declared:

"All this talk about a hollow shell is a laugh. This fellow Dempsey is not as fast as he used to be—but nobody can expect a 32 year old fellow to be as speedy as one at 24 or 26. But for a man of 32, and one who is still two good weeks away from fight day he looks mighty good."

"He's still a great hitter. The punch isn't gone. He may not land so many as he used to land when he was younger and could crowd all over a foe. But when he hits—well, he hits. He's dangerous to any man he faces so long as he can hold up his hands."

Ed Sullivan's SPORT WHIRL

Tilden Is Through
BIG BILL TILDE... has gone back to the three-set class, the minors or bush leagues of tennis.

He is in the position of the baseball star who can only play 100 of the 154 scheduled games because of ailing legs, or you might like him to the veteran of the ring who has to win inside of five rounds if he is to win at all.

One of the greatest athletes of the present century, one of the cleanest livers and strictest personal disciplinarians of all times, Big Bill Tilden has lost just a bit too much of that marvelous physical strength which once enabled him to rally and beat Bill Johnston, after the latter had won two sets and come within a point of the third.

Tilden is not old, as you and I figure old age, but championship tennis is not made for the yawning thirties. It is a game for the tearing twenties and Henri Cochet of Lyons, France, in his twenties.

For three sets Tilden is still the Tilden of old. However, he made his greatest bid for fame in matches that went beyond three sets. It was his sheer strength, displayed in five sets and more, that stamped him as a great champion. His famous rallies made him a sensation.

Big Bill still has his strokes and he still has the daring courage that prompted him to drive his cannonball service off his second serve when the Wimbledon championship was at stake against B. I. C. Norton. But Big Bill lacks endurance when the matches go above the three-set limit.

Like Dempsey, Tilden has to win in a hurry, and Henri Cochet is one lad who refuses to be beaten in a hurry.

Mickey Walker's the Dope
While Tilden was noting the handwriting on the wall at Wimbledon, there was another Yankee who was executing some fancy Spencerian whirls and loops of his own in the Olympic arena at London, just outside of Wimbledon.

He was Mickey Walker, the Toy Bulldog from Rumson, N. J., home of polo.

Walker, unlike Tilden, had been doomed to defeat by American critics. It was felt that Tilden would beat Cochet and that Walker would lose his world's middleweight title to Tommy Milligan, the Scot.

Disregarding the gloomy forecasts of his countrymen, Mickey won by a knockout in ten rounds, weakening Milligan with body punches and then cutting him down with lefts and rights to the head.

Mickey Walker was never one to regard his training as seriously as Big Bill Tilden.

A large part of Mickey's training was on the ballroom floors of our leading night clubs. He loved the life and color of the mob as it swirled past locked in each other's arms. He occasionally went into the orchestra and pounded the drums and footed the saxophone. His saying grace was that he never drank.

Probably Tommy Milligan today regrets that Mickey did not develop a crick in his right elbow from lifting schooners of champagne. If Mickey had added this to his night club prowls, Milligan today might be the middleweight champion of the world, rather than a very battered young aspirant.

And Kearns Was Outsmarted!
They said that Jack Kearns had been outsmarted when he made the Milligan match.

They said he had been outsmarted for the second time when he agreed to let Eugene Corri referee. It was Corri who was outside the ropes the night Willie Ritchie blew his world's lightweight championship to Freddie Welsh.

Welsh, master of the parry and the dawning attack, won by half a point in a total of some thousand points. There was a natural suspicion that Corri had juggled the arithmetic to prove that figures can't lie.

Through it all Kearns had only one reply.
"Maybe they outsmarted me," assented Kearns, "but our dough is in the bank and they can't outsmart a knockout."

A few nights before the scrap Kearns sent me a cable, in which he stated bluntly that Mickey would knock out Milligan. I refused to take that seriously, although I did pass the tip on to Harry Ahearn, advising him to go into the highways and grab the prevailing odds, which favored Milligan on his home lot.

Kearns knew whereof he spoke.
Paul Frawley and Gene Leone were at the ringside with the Prince of Wales and until they get back to Broadway we will have to rely on the cables for the cold description of Walker's magnificent triumph.

OWES HER LIFE TO FONG WAN HERBS

Stockton, Cal., March 21, 1927.
To the Fong Wan Herb Co.: I have been a sufferer with valvular trouble of the heart for some time. I became so ill that my doctors, who were many, gave me but a week or ten days to live.

I decided to try the Fong Wan Herb Co. and to the amazement of all who attended me, I was cured. I was able to walk in the Fong Wan Herb Co. after taking the Herbs one week. I have now taken them four weeks and I not only have a good heart, but have also been helped in other ailments.

I cannot speak too highly of the Fong Wan Herbs, as I owe my life to them. I am very grateful to Fong Wan for his kindness.

HEART TROUBLE

Marvelously Relieved

While visiting her daughter here in Oakland, Mrs. W. H. Morton of Stockton was in such great pain due to Heart Trouble that it affected her left hand and that night she could neither walk nor rest with the slightest comfort. All the physicians whom she consulted expressed the opinion that she had not more than ten days to live. She truly seemed to be at the end of her life.

Her first package of the Fong Wan Herbs it was cooked for her at home, and that night she had the first rest after many weeks of terrible suffering. After four weeks of the Fong Wan Herb Treatment, she was able to return to her home in Stockton. From that city she has sent the following testimonial to the Fong Wan Herb Co.:
